ERECTION OF DORMITORIES CONTEMPLATED

Arts Building to Be Re-modelled

NEW GYMNASIUM

Governors Will Probably
Make Decision in Near Future

Notwithstanding a report issued in a daily paper yesterday afternoon concerning the building of the gymnasium and dormitories and the remodelling of the Arts building, nothing has been definitely decided upon by the Governors of the University as yet. There was a report sent in by the building committee recommending that certain work should be proceeded with and the plans were being prepared, but none of the work has been officially sanctioned and no work has been let out to contractors.

The chances are, however, that the report of the building committee will receive favorable consideration when it is brought up at the next meeting of the Governors and an extensive building program should be started early in the spring. The plans as presented call for radical changes in the Arts building and new gymnasium and dormitory accommodation.

If the plans go through McGill will have a regular gymnasium next fall. The plans, which have been mooted for many years but postponed so often that many of the students had given up hope of ever realizing them, call for a large building beside the stadium in which the college indoor sporting activities will be centralized. The suggestions call for a fully equipped gymnasium, with a swimming tank and all the other accessories that go to make such a place perfect.

In addition the college suggests making the first move towards providing permanent dormitories for the students. Unable to secure the funds to build the large structures that are eventually scheduled to be seen at the foot of the mountain, the building committee suggests that one or two floors of the gymnasium building be equipped as dormitories so that approximately 150 students could be accommodated with rooms.

The building will be the second move towards the formation of Macdonald Park, the first of which was made when the present stadium was completed. According to the plans made out some years ago, the dormitories were to consist of a series of imposing buildings to be situated on the ground above the stadium. The gymnasium was to be situated on Pine Avenue in the space between the athletic field and the street.

CO-EDS TO ISSUE MCGILL DAILY

"Pink" Issue Will Appear
Next Thursday

Next Thursday, December 8, 1921, will witness a new departure in the life history of "McGill Daily," when the issue will be put out under the auspices of the women students. This is a splendid opportunity for the co-eds to show their ability as prospective newspaper women.

Some special articles are being written, but there is plenty of chance for any woman student to send in articles, whether prose, poetry or cartoons. No girl need hesitate to send in a contribution through fear of having to put her signature to her article, for nothing need be signed for publication. However, to aid the editors in finding out where the hidden talent lies buried, for future needs, it is requested that articles be signed when sent in.

All articles must be in by Monday noon, and must be placed in the letter box which stands immediately to the right inside the first door of the R.V.C. common room.

Daily paper can be obtained upon request from the secretary, Miss Trenholme, in the office.

WESLEYAN MEETING

Much business was transacted at the regular meeting of the Wesleyan College Students' Society held last night in the downstairs class room. Reports were received from all the departments save Athletics. B. C. Robertson was elected to the position of Head of Athletics, this position having been vacated by W. Boyes. A vote of thanks was passed to Boyes for the work he had already done. A second telephone for outgoing calls is to be installed.

GOOD DEBATE BY P.C. MEN LAST NIGHT

Students Greatly Interested in Lit. Society

ORATORY GALORE

Morrice and North Flats Discuss the Practice of Deception

The students of the Presbyterian College held a debate last night under the auspices of the Literary and Debating Society. This is the third big event held by the Society this year and following close on the Mock Trial and Concert, it is a credit to the enthusiasm and activity of the residents of this College.

The President of the Society, A. C. Lloyd, called the meeting to order and announced the subject of the Debate: "Resolved that Deception is Sometimes Justifiable". The affirmative was upheld by the Morrice Flat represented by Robert Hall and Lew Anderson, while the North Flat, represented by Henry Cousens and Harry Avison, took the negative side of the argument.

Hall stated at the outset that he did not wish to weaken the moral fibre by countenancing falsehood but merely wanted to show that deception was sometimes justifiable. He pointed out that there are some ideals which could only exist in a Utopian world, but for ordinary people in an ordinary world, a little deception is necessary. If everyone's inner life were laid bare to the world, things would be in a chaotic state. Physicians must use a certain amount of deception to promote the welfare of the patient. Cousens, opening the negative side, said that truth lies within the power of everyone. The hypocrite commands no respect. He quoted Dr. Fisher, of New York City, who says that a physician should never deceive a patient. Men have died rather than deny the truth; and no better examples of this could be found than the old martyrs. He appealed of this could become a liar. He appealed to the experience that honesty is the best policy. Anderson, for the affirmative, pointed out the difference between deceit and deception; the former is a habit, deception is not.

He said that deception is justifiable if it is used to avoid injuring others. Anger must be concealed, even if not forgiven, before the quarrel can be made up. He brought home a strong point in citing the case of a prisoner of war who told falsehoods rather than betray the strength of his army to the enemy. Avison insisted that truth is a sacred and vital thing and should never be put away. Deception in social custom destroys candour and raises barriers. He quoted Ruskin to show that even the "white lie" is never justifiable. Friendship based on deception is impossible.

The rebuttal of the arguments of the negative side was undertaken by Hall. The three judges, Dr. A. G. Gordon, Dr. S. Eakin and the Rev. A. W. Lochhead, then retired to deliberate while the meeting was thrown open for discussion. Dr. Gordon after due consideration with his colleagues, warmly complimented the speakers on the way they handled their cases and stated that the unanimous judgment was in favour of the affirmative. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

The common idea that Yale is a rich man's college is shown to be unfounded by an analysis of the statistics of their Self-Help Bureau. This shows that forty-three per cent of the undergraduates are partially or wholly self-supporting. True, there are rich men's sons there, but there are others who have to help themselves get an education.

M. BERTRAND SPOKE AT THE R.V.C. COLLEGE

President of Allied Great War Veterans' Association

BRILLIANT ORATORY

Many Ladies Present in the Audience

"Our great war veterans united for a common cause during the war, and they are now united for justice and peace," was the keynote of an address by M. Charles Bertrand at a meeting of the Alliance Française in the R.V.C. last night.

The meeting was called to order at 8.30 by M. Desaulniers, president of the Alliance Française, who introduced the speaker of the evening, M. Bertrand is on this side of the water to attend the Interallied Great War Veterans Convention, held at Kansas City about a month ago. He is president of the Inter-allied G.W.V.A. and is accompanying Marshal Foch on his tour of America. With a few general remarks, M. Desaulniers asked the speaker to address the gathering.

M. Bertrand at once captivated his audience by his winning manner. He spoke of the wonderful reception he had received here among his French-Canadian brothers and referred in an eloquent manner to the welcome accorded by the Americans to the great French generalissimo, Marshal Foch. The people across the line showed clearly by their attitude to the French war veterans that although they may not have signed the peace treaty with the Allies, they were heart and soul friends of the Allies in sentiment.

M. Bertrand spoke of the honor conferred upon him when he was elected president of the Allied Veterans. He regarded it, he said, as an honor, not to him personally, but to France. In the days of the war the people of France were drawn together by the terrible hardships. If the men in the trenches showed a marvellous unity of purpose, the unity of the veterans today is even greater.

The bloodshed of the war was a terrible thing in itself but on the other hand was the great symbol of true brotherhood—blood shed in a common cause, that of justice. The veterans have a new and high morality—a great moral unity for peace.

There was an impressive moment when the speaker bowed in silence as a tribute of respect for the glorious dead and he then went on to speak of the widows and orphans—our responsibility to them.

CHRISTMAS PLAY HAS BEEN CHOSEN

Players' Club Will Present "The Little Princess"

No time was lost by the executive of the Players' Club, after the decision adopted at a meeting held at the end of last week, in procuring a suitable play for presentation at an early date. On the advice of the honorary president and director, Dr. Cyrus Macmillan, "The Little Princess" was selected. The telegraph wires were soon humming between McGill and a certain dramatic publishing-house in New-York, and yesterday a sufficient number of copies of the selected play arrived in a "rush" order.

"The Little Princess" is a very well-known play from the pen of a gifted lady-dramatist, Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, better known to most people, perhaps, as the authoress of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." It has been presented with marked success by several of the university amateur theatrical organizations on this continent and those in the know are sure that it will achieve a similar success when staged by the local thespians.

Rehearsals will start almost immediately, as a great effort will be made to produce the play well before the beginning of the Christmas holidays. The cast committee yesterday afternoon drew up a provisional list of applicants, sufficient in number to fill the roles in the play. The list which is strictly temporary, is as follows.

The Misses Shatford, A. Sharples, Slack, Fry, Massy-Bayley, Grigg, Roy, Snyder, Robins, Palmer, L. Evans, Teed, D. Sharples, Birkett and Henderson.

R. C. Harris, T. L. Bullock, S. D. Pierce, R. Hall, H. R. C. Avison, R. V. Fortune and H. Cousens.

The above are requested to be present without fail in the R. V. C. on Saturday afternoon at two p.m.

A COURSE IN JOURNALISM

The number of universities in the United States possessing courses in journalism has increased more than one hundred per cent during the past four years, and over one quarter of the leading educational institutions now offer courses in newspaper training. The increasing number of men and women who enjoy writing for the college paper each year shows that McGill students take an active interest in newspaper work.

A splendid series of lectures were delivered by Mr. E. J. Archibald last year, and an outline of journalism given to the "Daily" staff last week was highly instructive and much appreciated. A straight course in journalism at McGill might not be an immediate success, as the field here is not so wide as New York, for example, where Columbia University maintains a large school of journalism. The Department of English could foster such a course, and as it broadened out it might become a department by itself. Montreal possesses a goodly number of distinguished Canadian journalists, and some members of the Department of English have had newspaper experience, so it should not be difficult to find competent instructors. While the real school is actually newspaper work, a great deal can be taught through lectures.

Not so long ago, reporting for a paper was a last resort, but today a member of the "fourth estate" is not only admitted to the highest councils, but frequently influences them, and he may even rise to be a peer of the realm. The monetary returns of a newspaper career are still inadequate, but they are steadily increasing. A newspaper training is a good stepping stone, and many of the world's leading men started their careers in journalism. Newspaper work makes one alert, ever ready to grasp the right opportunity. Above all, it broadens one's line of vision, and brings one into contact with one's fellow-men of all ranks and conditions.

Fifty per cent of the registered students at McGill participated in competitive athletics this fall. At last we are reaching the desirable state of affairs where an adequate amount of material for teams is turning out. The only way to win intercollegiate championships is to get a large number of men to compete for the various teams. With such a great interest in sports and keen competition we can reasonably look forward to greater success than ever before in university athletics.

discontent but they should be pitied rather than criticised—surely they have reason to complain of their lot. The veterans wish to serve their country and the world, to be at the head of affairs. They are moderate in their demands for the new day—they do not want militarism, but they also don't want Bolshevism.

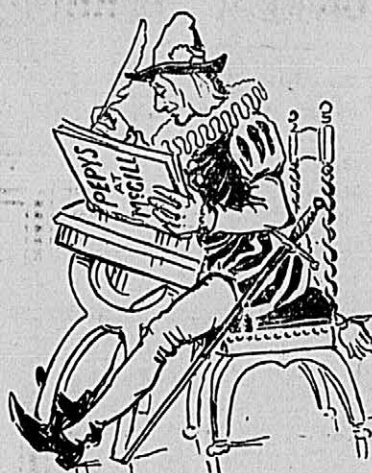

They want to be leaders in social justice—there were no social barriers in the war, why should they exist now? He pleaded for recognition of the common people—they did their part with the best, proved themselves in the hardest test and gave their last drop for their countries.

They have material ideals as well as moral ones. The veterans have the right to exercise their influence—they wish to be an international bond of good fellowship to prevent rival politicians from starting international trouble. M. Bertrand then went on to say that although he represented the veterans he also represented France. He then spoke in an animated manner regarding the charges made against France since the war. She has been accused of levity of opinion and imperialism in international affairs. He repudiated these charges as only a French patriot could do and was enthusiastically applauded.

The French national sentiment was emphatically brought out in M. Bertrand's explanation of Germany's present situation as opposed to that of France. Germany, although defeated, is already coming back in the industrial world, while France, the victor, is torn and bleeding from the war. The lecturer said he represented the stricken families of France and the veterans. On their behalf he wished to thank the Canadians for their help—the old sons of France came back to her aid in the hour of need.

France was not surprised at the valor of the Canadians as they were sons of France. In closing M. Bertrand read letters of a French soldier, a school teacher, a workman and a boy of 18. They all had the same ideal—unity for justice. We owe to be dead a supreme effort to prevent future war—there must be world unity. The veterans ask the help of the opinion in their struggle for peace and hold out the sincerest wishes for the success of the Washington Conference.

PEPYS AT MCGILL

Thursday, Dec. 1st. Up to the Arts Building where the exceeding chilliness everywhere nearly froze the very marrow in my bones and so; about all morning my teeth chattering in my jaws, and my collar turned up about my ears. Several of my fellows came to me in confidence to tell me that the Lord Governors intend to use no fuel this year in the heating of the Arts Building, so that they may the better afford to build dormitories as a monument to the next hundredth birthday of these colleges, which seems to me to be a heartless plan indeed, but I suppose we must suffer such privation in silence. I had thought that the Mock Parliament would sit again this day, and so seeing the King's chief minister about the passageways, I went up to him very humbly to remind him of the loyal support. I rendered him a scennight since, and to beg of him as a reward the office of First Deputy Keeper of the Quills and Ink-Horns, but he gazed down upon me most haughtily and bid me be off, saying that the wild look in my eye marked me for a "Progressive" rather than for a true supporter of the Government, also that they would have no more such Mock Parliaments ever, which I take to be a mighty strange thing, and perhaps they have offended by their travesty our rulers who sit at Ottawa, but no man may know for they will give no reason of their conduct. All very friendly this morning in that they had marked my absence from the banquet last night, only many took a most cruel joy in telling me of the feasting and mirth that reigned there. I have not yet laid eyes on the rogue who made off with my flagon. Did read somewhat in the Theorems of Euclid the mathematician, who was a Greeque slave, and then to bed.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor.

The McGill Daily.

Dear sir,

A rather surprising editorial appeared in your columns this morning. Its author, by his statements, clearly showed that he considered such an action as the postponement of the Mock Parliament until after Xmas, unwarranted and ill-advised. May I suggest, sir, that before giving such enforced expression to his thoughts he would have done well to have consulted with someone conversant with the situation, and not relied implicitly on what he might be pleased to term his own good judgment.

Although the course of the Executive of the Literary and Debating Society is open to argument, I fail to see, sir, how, when the time is opportune further interest can be created, if everyone is to take the attitude of the learned author of the editorial and challenge the discretion of the Executive.

As the damage has now been done, an explanation of the reasons for our course of action can well be made.—It is quite admitted that certain obstacles prevented our holding a meeting of the Mock Parliament this evening. After a consultation between both parties, a postponement was agreed upon.—On examination of our schedule for the remainder of the month, we found that next week called for our first Intercollegiate Debate.—As two meetings of the "Lit" in one week would obviously act in detriment of the other and as it is very important that as many as possible be present to support our men in their debate against Queens, a session during that week was found impracticable. The following week, the last week of the term, may likewise be the scene of an Intercollegiate Debate.—This is of course dependent on McGill winning their section when a play-off with Ottawa College takes place.—This contingency must be taken into account.—There remains the further objection that during that last week exams take place in some of the faculties, and even in the faculties where there are none, the average student has felt the approach of January exams and is spending his precious time in preparation for these. I can quite appreciate that many students, and perhaps even the learned critic herein mentioned, can see no possible excuse for such fervour. However that is his gain and our regret.

May I be permitted to say in conclusion that you, sir, have always been readily disposed to further our interest in the "Lit" and that I find it regrettable that such an article should have been allowed to appear which is bound to find a reaction in the students. Thanking you for your space, I am, Yours truly, W. R. Dillon, President.

The Literary and Debating Society, Montreal, Dec. 1st 1921.

To the Editor,

McGill Daily.

In regard to the notice in your issue of yesterday, I was under the impression that the price of meals at the Union Cafeteria had been reduced to 40 cents. On following the rush at noon, and after waiting in the unusual long line with fellow students, who were looking for the "Square meal at rock bottom price," I was charged the usual price of 55 cents.

I class myself with the numerous other students who try to secure the most reasonable priced meal and I don't see why such a notice as the one referred to above, was put in the "Daily", but the originator of that notice could not have been aware of the ill-feeling unduly created amongst those who patronize the Cafeteria.

An explanation as to the origin of that notice would be appreciated. Cafeteria Patronizer.

Inter-Faculty Competitions
Attracted Good Crowd

SEVERAL FINALS

Sir Arthur Currie Present and Exhibition Bout Staged

Another round in the inter-faculty boxing eliminations proved a very interesting and exciting attraction for all boxing enthusiasts. The presence of the Principal, was a great incentive for the men to display their best, as it was also concrete evidence of the great interest Sir Arthur Currie displays in all Undergraduate activities.

The feature bout was the exhibition one between McGregor of Science and Boucher of Medicine. These two men are exceedingly evenly matched and from the first going it was evident that they were out for a real bout and not for a mere exhibition. They went at it hammer and tongs and the first round was not over before Boucher went down for a count of nine. However he came back strong in the second round and before it was over both men were very much winded. The third round saw no let-ups in the pace and with the last going the two men were almost staggering. After such a hard tussle they were very disappointed when no decision was announced.

Champion won the 145 pound championship of Science by defeating Warren in a well fought contest. The first round was very even but in the second and third Champion's better condition told and his lefts and rights to Warren's head gave him the decision.

In the Commerce 158 pound class Wilson got the decision over Buzzell in the semi-finals. Wilson's superior height and longer reach were the deciding factor. Buzzell by clever ducking kept out of Wilson's way in the first two rounds but was worn out in doing so and in the third round Wilson had a decided advantage.

The Arts 145 pound class was finished up, Gardner being the winner over Everett.

It was a good display of boxing both men being very fast on their feet. Gardner's strong point was his ability to dodge Everett's blows and his lightning-like footwork.

The next day for competition will be Saturday and the men mentioned here are requested to be on hand at 2 o'clock sharp.

The bouts will be as follows:
Commerce—135 pound class: Simpson, Aziff, Shocker, McCallum; Gow.
145 pound class—Montgomery, Snyder, final.

158 pound class—Caza, Wilson, final.
Arts—135 pound class: Craik, Anderson, Cope.

Medicine—145 pound class: Henderson, Stockhausen, final. 125 pound class: Wever, Snow. Quackenbush, Reid.

Science—158 pound class: Binns, McGregor, final.

Confident

Coach Frank Shaughnessy, put the Junior team through the last workout of the year yesterday afternoon in preparation for the game with the St. Lambert Tigers on Saturday, to decide the championship of the Province of Quebec.

The game is to be played at Molson stadium, which despite recent snowfalls is in fairly good condition, considering the time of the year. St. Lambert, the winners in their division of the league have an enviable record for the season. They have encountered such teams as Westmount, M. A. A. A., and Grand Trunk and are yet to meet with defeat. The McGill men were given the opportunity of looking over their Saturday's opponents when the Tigers defeated Grand Trunk at the stadium last week by the score of 7-0.

The visitors are a heavy aggregation and have one or two stars in the backfield who will bear close watching. They are particularly strong in the punting department and in this respect have a slight advantage over the Red and White.

Shag has been devoting his time to developing smooth team play and under his direction during the last few days the Juniors have been rounded out into a well working machine. They took altogether different from the Junior team of a few weeks ago and will certainly show the effects of Shag's coaching by their play on Saturday.

During the early part of the afternoon the men were sent down under the kicking. The wings showed great speed and were sure of their footing. They have become accustomed to the snowy field and should feel perfectly at ease during the contest. Grasick, McConnell and Hutcheson received the punts and though the pigskin was snow-covered during the greater part of the workout fumbles were not frequent. Shag had Chisholm trying a number of place kicks with Hutcheson holding the ball, and several times "Gav" sent the oval sailing between the bars from well beyond the thirty yard line. The men were then lined up for signal practice and tried out a number of new plays.

The snap with which the various shift plays were worked was gratifying to the coach. The team has been taught a new outside kick play which should gain a good many yards for McGill on Saturday.

Never before has spirit run so high among the players. They were out on the field early and were at work for a long time after dark. The probable line-up is as follows:

L. Halfback—Chisholm.
C. Halfback—Grasick.
R. Halfback—McConnell
Quarterback—Hutcheson, Capt.
Flying wing—Davies
L. outside—Anderson.
L. middle—Snyder.
L. inside—Mitchell.
Centre—Machews.
R. inside—Abinowitch.
R. middle—McGillis.
R. outside—Cope.

Joslin will probably get into the game at outside wing and Hamilton in the backfield.

R.V.C. GIRLS VISIT MacDONALD COLLEGE

The girls of the First and Second years of the R.V.C. who are planning to take or who are interested in the course of Household Science leading to the B.H.S. degree, had the pleasure on Wednesday of visiting Macdonald College as the guests of the Third year girls. Fourteen girls, accompanied by Miss Hurlbatt, went to Macdonald College. They were met at the station by two of the students, who gave them a cordial welcome and took them to the college, where a delicious lunch was served by the "Homemakers." Then the guests were taken over the college, from the laundry, the cooking rooms, the physics and chemistry laboratories, the library, assembly hall and dining rooms to the girls' residences, and they heard about the course from very enthusiastic girls who, after two years at the R.V.C., are in their first year at Macdonald, where they will be the first to graduate with the B.H.S. degree. Tea was served to the prospective visitors, who were introduced to the members of the Faculty. Everyone returned home, full of enthusiasm for the course, and eagerly looking forward to the next two years out at Macdonald.

BASKETBALLERS SNAPPY WORKOUT

Senior Squad Continues to Improve

If pep and enthusiasm were synonymous with success, then the McGill senior Basketball squad would already have the championship tucked away.

At last night's practice the Seniors continued to show the good form which characterized their previous practices this year. Coach Foss put the men who turned out through an hour's hard work and seemed satisfied at the end with their progress. At this early date there can be no attempt made to predict the personnel of the team, but it is safe to say that with the amount of good new material available, last year's regulars will have to travel at top speed to hold their places.

Fox started the men off by having forwards attacking on end with a two man defence, trying out all the men in different positions, thus giving them practice in passing, dribbling, and blocking. "Bones" Little and Ed. Grain showed up very well as guards, proving a very difficult pair to pass.

After a half hour of this practice, Fox lined up two teams and sent them to it, changing men over and replacing them frequently.

Pretty passing and lots of speed featured the practice.

Laishley, Little, Hay and Manson, the Albertan, proved a very strong combination when on floor, Manson's shooting especially being deadly. There is considerable room for improvement in this department of the game, but as the season progresses, there is no doubt but that practice will remove this weakness. On the whole, prospects, viewed thus early in the season, seem very bright.

B. W. & F. SMOKER FINAL BOUTS SOON

Inter-Faculty Finals to be Held
December 15th

The B. W. and F. Executive held a meeting in the Union yesterday at five o'clock, the object being to determine the time and arrangements for the coming inter-faculty smoker. It was decided to hold the smoker on the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 14 and 15. The first night will be devoted almost entirely to the semi-final boxing bouts in the inter-faculty boxing eliminations, and the finals will be run off the following evening. The smoker would have been held on Friday the 16th only a dance is being held that evening in the ballroom.

The prices have been fixed at twenty-five cents for the first night and a half a dollar for the final night, and with these very reasonable prices a large turnout is expected. All the final bouts in boxing will be run off on the last night, also a fencing bout, and five wrestling ones. All the matches will be competitive, no exhibition bouts being held. The medals will be presented to the winners directly after the last bout, and if it is possible to get the medals made for last year's intercollegiate winners, these will be awarded also.

The idea of having music in between the bouts which was tried at the last smoker and which proved such a decided success will be again repeated at this one. Everyone remember the dates.

ELECTRICAL CLUB BUSINESS MEETING

At the meeting of the Electrical Club held last night, Harold Holt the President announced that in all probability the next trip would be taken by the members on Tuesday December 13th to the Northern Electric Company plant.

The meeting was called in order to have the financial statement of the club, read, which was not available at the last meeting. The statement was read and approved. The office of honorary president was also filled, at the meeting, Professor Christie of the Electrical Engineering Department being elected by acclamation.

A discussion of the disposal of the funds remaining at the end of the year then took place. It was suggested that the faculty year men should be allotted their proportion of any balance which remained in the Club's account, and put it towards a class dinner or some such entertainment; the remainder of the balance being carried over to the next year. It was also suggested that the club should endeavor to hold a smoker in the Union, and invite some prominent engineer to speak. Three questions were left to the consideration of the committee until the next meeting. There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

U.A.A.A. PREPARE FOR REAL WORK

Practice as Soon as Ice Ready
—Colors Announced

The colors of the newly formed U.A.A.A. are to be red, yellow, blue and white, it was decided at the meeting held last night in the Union. The hockey uniform to be worn will be white sweaters with bands of red, yellow and blue 1 inch, one-half inch and one inch respectively, at neck, bottom and cuffs, with white stockings with a band round the calf of the three colors arrayed in the same way.

The constitution was submitted in its final form and approved, the main clauses being the same as those which were drafted out at the preliminary meetings, so that now everything is in shape for beginning practice. Hours have been secured at the Arena from 5 to 6 on Tuesdays and from 11 to 12 on Sundays, and as soon as there is ice these practices will commence. The schedule for the City League has not as yet been drawn up, but it is considered likely that the first game will be about the 26th of December, so the U.A.A.A. executive is endeavoring to lose no time in getting a team ready and in condition by that date.

To date there appears to be rather a scarcity of forwards, but the executive has several stars in view, notably Alan Thompson, captain of the championship team of 1912, who is quite likely to turn out, and others who will round out the team nicely as there is no lack of defence players.

POLOISTS ENGAGE LASALLE TONIGHT

Intermediate Game to be Held at Central "Y"

McGill Intermediates play the La Salle team in the Central "Y" to-night at 9 P. M. This is the last game on the schedule that McGill plays, and they must win this game to keep in the running for the league honours. McGill defeated La Salle early in the season but the latter have improved since then and will furnish a good game. There will be no admission charged to see the game and a good crowd of McGill and R. V. C. A. should be on hand to witness the game. McGill will be at full strength with Graham-Browne in the nets. I. Forsyth and C. Anson present a strong defense. J. Ross will be at centre while G. Vickerson and W. D. Munro make up a fast forward line.

JUNIOR YEAR ORGANIZE FOR PUBLICATION

Arts '23 Elect Two Representatives

WOULD REVERT

Opinion Favours Resuming Name of "Annual"

A meeting to decide upon the question of the annual publication of the Junior Year was held by the class of Arts '23 yesterday.

After a certain amount of discussion it was decided by the class that taking all things into consideration it would be better to revert to the old name of "Annual", regarding the "Yearbook" only as a suitable break from tradition to commemorate the Centennial. The old "Annual" had been the best known of college publications for many years, and as a change back to the old name would not by any means imply submission to any of its defects, it should be possible to produce a publication this year, combining all the good points of last year's "Yearbook" and supported by the good name of past "Annuals". One of the most outstanding features of the "Yearbook" was the laudable attempt made to widen the circle of interest beyond the bounds of any one class. This feature would, of course, have to be stressed in any publication undertaken by the Junior years. As a heavier financial burden and all the onus of production falls upon the Juniors it was felt, however, that they had some right to peculiar prominence.

S. E. Read and F. H. Walter were elected to meet the representatives from the other junior years of the University, who will probably be elected shortly.

Subsequent negotiations with the representatives of other faculties may convince the committee of the desirability of adhering to the name chosen last year. But the question of title is after all a very minor consideration. The general desire of the Juniors at present is to produce a volume worthy in every way of Old McGill and the class of twenty-three.

MEDICINE DEFEATS DENTISTRY SOPHS.

Sophomores Keenly Contest Baseball Game

Another close game was played last evening at the High School when Dentistry '23 locked honors with Medicine '22 the latter finally winning by the close score of 15-14.

Both pitchers, Grey and Harwood, twirled good ball and both fielded well. Grey assisting with a brilliant putout in the fifth inning.

For the winners Ballon, catcher, and Devin collected most of the hits while their skipper Anglin and also Hamilton played well in the field.

For the losers Bourke, Brown and Laishley were responsible for most of the runs while Gross caught one of the best games this season.

Great credit is due to the fine game played by Dent '23 considering the fact that this was their first game and they had to turn out with little or no practice.

The teams lined up as follows:

MUSICAL CONCERT SUNDAY P.M.

Students' Orchestra to Render Music at Union

Next Sunday a concert will be given in the lounge room of the Union by a clavier trio. The time will be from four to five. To the uninitiated it might be explained that a clavier trio is a trio consisting of a cello, violin, and piano. The students who will play are all members of the Students' Orchestra so everyone can rest assured that the music will be of the best quality.

The idea of holding this musical treat is to help make the Union more popular on Sunday afternoons. That is a time when a great many students of the University who live out of town have nothing to do, and it is felt that a large number of them will turn out to hear this musical treat. The programme is one of the best and has been selected with great care. The following are the selections to be given:

March: B minor —F. Schubert.
Trio Opus: 65 No. 1—H. Sitt.
Trio Opus: No. 6—J. Haydn.

He—"Why is it that your mother seldom trusts us alone?"

She—"She knows me better than you do, John."

WHAT IS TO BE CANADA'S DESTINY?

Shall it be that through the destruction of the Tariff as proposed by both Crerar and King, the development of Canada is to come under the domination of the United States, to be followed by gradual financial domination and as a consequence, political domination?

—OR—

Is Canada's destiny to be that of a great free nation within the British Empire group of Nations, developing her boundless resources of mine, river, water power, forest, and cultivating her millions upon millions of acres of arable land? Is her development to surpass that of any other nation?

Shall her manufacturing industries develop her minerals and raw materials into implements and goods for the benefit and comfort of her people and for foreign trade?

Shall she become a self-contained nation within the Empire, her great railways interchanging the products of factory and farm among her own people, and her ships sailing every sea?

Shall she maintain her integrity within the Empire and protect her farms and factories against unfair competition from foreign countries?

IF THIS IS TO BE CANADA'S DESTINY, THEN CANADA NEEDS MEIGHEN.

On December 6th, Canada should once again protect her farms, her factories and her workmen against the unsound theory of Free Trade, and should hold fast to her reasonable Protective Tariff, her national entity and her British connection.

On December 6th Canada should declare with no uncertain voice that she will not tolerate the false trade theories of visionaries and group leaders which tend toward her economic destruction, toward the separation of her people and the weakening of the ties that bind Canada to the British Empire.

On December 6th Canada should demonstrate unmistakably to the outside world her fixed determination to keep Canada for the Canadians.

On December 6th Canada's destiny is at stake.

Canada Needs Meighen
